

InterPlay®: A Creative Practice For Our Times

14-22 April 2012- Glasgow, Edinburgh, Stirling, Lismore.

You are invited to participate in a one or a series of workshops exploring the creative practice of InterPlay® - a movement, storytelling, voice and community-building practice with a focus on connection, reflection and play. InterPlay builds artistic skill, leadership ability and strong community. InterPlay brings your creative resources to life using easy, incremental forms. Each workshop will introduce basic InterPlay forms to explore our stories. No experience needed; any body can do it! Come and be amazed by yourself and others, and by what we can create together.

InterPlay for Performance, Part 1: Embodying Our Stories

10:00am - 12:00pm - Gillis
Centre, 100 Strathearn Road,
Edinburgh EH9

This workshop will introduce basic InterPlay forms for accessing and sharing our stories with others. Celebrate the ordinary! Create a greater sense of connection to our self, others and our world.

Part 2: Moving Our Stories

2:00pm - 5:00pm - Gillis Centre

Embody your stories through basic InterPlay movement forms.
No dance or other movement experience needed. This workshop introduces InterPlay practices of movement to express our stories. Though there is an aspect of building on previous InterPlay workshops, newcomers are welcome.

InterPlay Performance:

Darlene Kucken, Certified InterPlay® Leader will facilitate these workshops. Darlene has been a practitioner of InterPlay for over seven years, a Certified InterPlay leader for over three years, and experiences the power of InterPlay practices to make positive life changes in her own life. She has led many workshops and teaches ongoing classes regularly for both beginners and advanced InterPlayers. Darlene has performed in Off The Deep End Ensemble, an InterPlay®performance group, a Community Choreography Project and a Telling Your Story performance-based project.

Mairi Campbell is a well known singer and musician from Scotland. She has lead a folk choir for 10 years and had a teaching practice for 20 years. She currently combines this with live performance and songwriting. In 2012 she was awarded 'tutor of the year' and in 2008 'Scots Singer of the Year' from the trad music awards. Her interest in creativity and well-being has led to her inviting this InterPlay series of workshops to Scotland.
